~~Mr. IKUSHIMA~~, a Japanese, was HOVANS' boss in the Naval Intelligence. He had been in the United States, and spoke English. He was at 707 Hamilton House and had a wife and two small children. He was a plain clothes man, but in Naval Intelligence. I think he planned the trip to Manila. He was very cold blooded. I haven't seen him much as he travelled a lot and I had never had any business with him. Seen him last about Spring business with him recently. of 1944 on the street while carrying shopping goods.
Admiral OTONI was closely connected with HOVANS. Also a group of Japanese lieutenants. I never met him.

~~CARNEIRO~~, a Portuguese, was HOVANS' main man or agent. HOVANS had money to pay his agents which he got from the Japanese and from plundering. said he He kept his funds in a safe in the Navy Building, 37 the Bund, but actually he ~~CARNEIRO~~ was broken can be found often in the French Concession in DD's restaurant. He is usually seen with ~~PAUL LOJIKOFF~~, who is another of HOVANS' strong-arm men. They usually come into the restaurant about 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon. A description of CARNEIRO is: height - 5'7"; weight 150 to 160 lbs.; age 50; dark hair, grey at the temples; dark complexion; long nose; Latin appearance; medium build; wears grey Homburg hat and yellow gloves and carries a cane with a silver tip. He has good connections with the Portuguese Consulate who came to his rescue right away when he was arrested. He speaks Portuguese, Chinese, English and maybe Russian. In manner he resembles Al Capone --- is domineering and dull, is not a gunman but a "smasher". I never met Carneiro personally. I only observed him in action.
 HOVANS is timid of firearms, really afraid of them, and probably could not kill anyone. Palin said he never shot off a pistol in his life. ~~LOJIKOFF~~ wouldn't kill, but would be very rough; he is a boxer and bully. CARNEIRO carries a gun and would probably use in case of provocation. CARNEIRO <sup>is</sup> was a racketeer --- he and HOVANS made a good team, HOVANS providing the protection through his connections with the Japanese.

I think that CARNEIRO with LOJIKOFF and his brother went to Manila
